TWENTY-SECOND SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME
A Message from our Associate Pastor, Fr. Ryan McMillin

September 1, 2019

Dear Friends,

There’s been much talk about a recent Pew Survey that reports that only about one-third of Catholics believe the Church’s teaching on the real presence of Jesus in the Eucharist. No doubt this figure has elicited a variety of reactions among Catholics: disappointment, outrage, confusion, even apathy. It might behoove us, then, to take some time to discuss what we believe the Eucharist to be.

We can start by looking for clarification on the results of the Pew Survey. While the news article put out by Pew reports that some 70% of Catholics don’t believe in ‘transubstantiation,’ the survey itself never used the term, but only asked whether the bread and wine (a) “actually become the body and blood of Jesus Christ” or (b) “are symbols of the body and blood of Jesus Christ.” I have to admit that I can sympathize with those who had hesitations about choosing (a), the “correct” answer.

How can I say that? Am I denying the real presence? Far from it! What I’m questioning is whether all the respondents understood the terminology in the answers in exactly the same way (the problem inherent in most surveys). In other words, when people rejected (a), was it because they were saying to themselves something like “I don’t actually chew the flesh of Jesus of Nazareth when I eat the Eucharist, do I?” Or was it because they truly don’t believe Jesus is present in any way?

This is a legitimate question that touches on an age-old (like 9th century old) dispute in the Church between two schools of Eucharistic theology. One school (the “extreme realists”) would go so far as to claim that we do indeed chew the flesh of Jesus when we eat the Eucharist; the other (the “symbolic/sacramental” school) would claim that what we receive in the Eucharist is not exactly the same as the physical body of the earthly Jesus, although Jesus is surely present.

Suffice it to say that the Church eventually accepts the thought of the “symbolic/sacramental” school. It’s important to note, though, that the Church doesn’t mean ‘symbol’ in the way most people today—including Pew respondents—would mean it. When the Church calls the Eucharist a symbol, it means to say that Christ is in fact really present, but in a different mode than he was present to his disciples in his earthly ministry. Hence, we’re not gnawing on Christ’s arm or leg when we eat the Eucharist. We’re receiving his presence in a different, but no less real or substantial, way. In some way that ultimately transcends our insufficient human terminology and explanations, we’re receiving the one who is both human and divine. That’s what the common phrase “body, blood, soul, and divinity” is trying to express when applied to the Eucharist.

I think what this short discussion shows is that things are a bit more complicated than choosing between (a) and (b). Both are true with proper qualifications. I hope in the next few weeks to rent some space in the bulletin to probe some of these qualifications: how we can understand the term ‘body of Christ,’ what ‘transubstantiation’ is and isn’t, and what this implies about our own prayer lives. My hope is that this sparks some good discussion and discernment along the way, helping us all to appreciate the gift we receive in Christ’s real presence.

Fr. Ryan
Join us on Thursdays for Holy Hour with Deacon Hahn at 7pm in the church!

This is our faith! The Real Presence of Christ, Who is alive, waits for us to visit Him in our Church.

We are thankful for Eucharistic Adoration at St. James Church.

The Bravest Little Girl

A story often told by the Venerable Bishop Fulton Sheen....

The Chinese government has never been fond of Christians. During the Boxer Rebellion, they sent soldiers to destroy Catholic Churches. A little girl was praying in the back of one of these Churches when the soldiers came. They desecrated the church and arrested the priest. Finally, they broke into the tabernacle and threw the Eucharist all over the floor. There were 32 hosts.

The priest was placed under house arrest in the rectory. That night, he watched as the little girl slipped past the soldier outside the rectory and sneaked into the Church. She knelt before one of the hosts on the floor and made a holy hour. Then she bent down picked up the host with her tongue and consumed the Eucharist.

She did this every night for 37 nights. On the 37th night, after she had consumed the final host, she accidentally made a small noise. It was enough to wake up the rectory guard. The priest watched from his bedroom with great sadness as the guard martyred the little girl by beating her to death with the butt of his rifle.

We don't know her name. We don't know anything about her, other than that we should all pray to be more like her. Her story is so beautiful that it spread from person to person, then from town to town, and eventually made its way to a young priest named Fr. Fulton Sheen. He was so inspired by it that he committed himself to making a daily Holy Hour for the rest of his life.

THINKING ABOUT BECOMING CATHOLIC?

R.C.I.A., Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults, is a process for those adults interested in learning more about the Catholic faith in order to receive the sacraments of Baptism, Confirmation, and Eucharist.

This process is for all adults who:

⇒ are not baptized
⇒ were baptized in another Christian denomination
⇒ or were baptized Catholic, but have not received the sacraments of Eucharist or Confirmation

Every year we have people from all ages and walks of life come to the R.C.I.A. They come for many reasons, such as engagements, marriages, having children, personal losses or spiritual longing. R.C.I.A. will start meeting Wednesday nights this fall beginning on September 25th. The first two months of the process are called the Inquiry Phase, where you will learn more about the Catholic faith by listening to presentations and personal reflections by a team of parishioners, by sharing scripture, and by participating in group discussions.

After the Inquiry Phase, you will discern for yourself if this feels right for you. You then decide if you wish to receive further instruction in order to receive Baptism, Confirmation, and Eucharist at the Easter Vigil next spring. Persons baptized in other Christian denominations would only receive Confirmation and Eucharist as the Catholic Church respects these baptisms.

EXODUS TREKKERS

Former St. Viator President Shepherds Young Refugees

"I heard something that moved my heart so deeply that I could no longer live my life the way I had been living it."

This is a report of a priest’s dedicated work giving asylum to 18-year-old refugee youths who flee illegally from various countries only to placed in federal detention until they get a court hearing two years later. The priest is Fr. Corey Brost, director of the Viator House of Hospitality.

Five years ago, Fr. Corey was walking down an ancient migrant trail….

Volunteers Needed for Senior Tax Preparation

AARP Tax-Aide is looking for volunteers in the northwest suburbs with federal and state tax preparation. No previous tax experience is necessary but good computer skills are required. Those who volunteer receive IRS training materials and may attend 4-5 weekday training classes in January at Harper College in Prospect Heights. They must satisfactorily complete a test to become IRS-certified tax preparers. Volunteers must be able to commit to 3-4 hours once a week during the tax season, February – April, 2020. If interested, please contact parishioner Marilyn Neuman, 847-398-6265, or cmneuman2@gmail.com
Many men and women are released from detention with nothing more than the clothes they were arrested in (pajamas, work clothes, summer clothes, etc.) There is an ongoing need for support packs that include clothing and hygiene products that will be a great help as they transition out of immigration detention and return to friends or family, often in other states.

Sign up in advance to donate items, then bring them to the event, where we will assemble the packs together. We will hear about the work ICDI is doing from Melanie Schikore, ICDI Executive Director.

Items needed include T-shirts, socks, sweatshirts and sweatpants, hygiene kits, water bottles, and more. Please go to this link to sign up: tinyurl.com/sjbackpacks

Meeting Mental Illness with Grace

Human Dignity

The dignity of the individual is paramount in our belief that we are all created in the image and likeness of God. Our language and our actions should reflect that belief. When talking about mental illness, we should use “people first language.” We refer to people as the person they are - not the disease they have. So we say “a person who has a mental illness” or “a man or woman with a mental illness.” We avoid referring to people using terms like “the mentally ill” or “the depressed,” or even worse terms. We all want to be known for the person we are not the illness we have. We are more than the illness we have! As people of compassion and justice we should never use stigmatizing language or demeaning terms when referring to people with an illness.

Careful use of language is a way of communicating that people with mental illness, as Pope John Paul II said, “have the inalienable right not only to be considered as an image of God and therefore as a person, but also to be treated as such.”

We make the dignity of the individual real by following the example Jesus gave us. Jesus calls us to seek out and include people in our faith community who are suffering and isolated. Jesus gave us many examples, like the story of the Good Samaritan who helped someone when no one else would, and the story of the father of the prodigal son that teaches us about unconditional love. It is when we live in these ways that we experience the love that God has for us.
