THIRTEEN SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

A MESSAGE FROM...

It has been 1 year, 3 months, and 26 days since our choirs have been able to sing together in Mass. Such a long time to go without being able to pray with our community in song! How far we have come through the grace and mercy of God to be at this point. It feels so good to say our choirs will, in fact, return to sing at our Masses! St. James has a long history of terrific choral singing and incredibly dedicated parishioners who have sung in our choirs for decades. We are so excited to join our choral community together, sing God's praises, and lift our voices to the Lord!

I'm very grateful for the leadership of our choir directors who have navigated these challenging months with poise and grace: John Towner, Mary McDermott, and Natalie Conseur. I also want to recognize the tremendous dedication of our choir members who continued to meet on zoom, trade supportive emails, and make recordings to be played at Masses under short deadlines. The love that they showed for one another, for our parish, and for God inspired me and continued to push me when I was feeling lost. Thank you for believing in each other and trusting in his will.

Two weeks ago, we were told we could sing again at Mass and let me say that it was so moving to hear everyone sing in our church. The Holy Spirit was with us and working in and through our collective voices! The song "How Can I Keep from Singing" came into my mind during Mass. The Bible contains over four hundred references to singing and fifty direct commands to sing. And in the New Testament we're commanded not one, but twice, to sing psalms, hymns, and spiritual songs to one another when we meet (Ephesians 5:19; Colossians 3:16). Let us never take for granted again the gift that God has placed in all of us, our voices.

My prayer is that we take this opportunity to raise our voices as one and proclaim the goodness of God by singing boldly each time we gather together at Mass. May it be pleasing to our Lord, and may it bring us to a deeper understanding of his love for us.

Peace,
Tam

Racism and Housing

Fifth in a series of nine USCCB backgrounders on racism and systemic racism, wealth, education, employment, housing, migration, criminal justice, the Native American experience, and voting. Combating Racism - Parish Resources / USCCB

Decent housing is a basic human right—deserved by all due to their dignity as being created in God’s image. Without decent, safe, and affordable housing, all aspects of family life suffer. Yet an affordable housing crisis is a current reality in the U.S. and, for minorities, it has been a reality throughout the nation’s history. With the Great Migration north in the beginning of the 20th century to seek employment and better lives, African Americans were crowded into low-income housing in cities like Chicago and Detroit in areas that increasingly became segregated. Later in the twentieth century, African Americans seeking housing were faced with both private and governmental prejudice. Private homeowners, real estate agents, and private developers (such as the founder of Levittown) could, and would, refuse to sell to Black citizens, so they were confined to segregated areas.

- For example, the practice of redlining—actually drawing red lines on maps around predominately African American neighborhoods to indicate where banks could not get federal insurance for loans they made—ensured that banks denied all mortgage requests from people in these areas.
- African American WWII veterans were denied access to the low-rate mortgages available to white veterans under the GI Bill
- The U.S. Government also built segregated public housing (as a part of the New Deal in the 1930s), first for low-income whites, then for low-income Blacks. With the housing boom after WWII, whites could leave public housing and buy low and moderate-priced houses in the growing suburbs with new means of financing: both the new suburbs and new forms of mortgages were closed off for African-Americans.
