Jesus teaches us to faithfully use the gifts God gives us, reminding us that we are accountable for how we serve Him.
Matthew 25:14-30

Dear Friends,

It is a pleasure to introduce you to Fr. Tim Anastos, chaplain at the St. John Paul II Newman Center at the University of Illinois Chicago. I invite you to join me in extending a warm welcome to Fr. Tim and in remembering him and the Newman Center community in your prayers.

Fr. Tim has been with us before as a presenter at Theology on Tap, and this weekend he was also a speaker at our Young Adult retreat. He is coming to ask our spiritual and financial support for the Newman Center, which serves 13,000 Catholic students, almost all from the Chicago area.

As a parish, we have an opportunity to encourage young adults as they grow in faith and discern how God is calling them to live. Amid the questions, decisions, and demands of college life, our prayerful support can be a simple but meaningful expression of the Church's care.

From the St. John Paul II Newman Center website:

We exist to help college students encounter Christ so that they can become fully alive in Him.

We believe that a relationship with Christ transforms every aspect of life — bringing joy, meaning, and clarity in a world that often offers confusion and distraction.

As a spiritual home for students at the University of Illinois Chicago and nearby campuses, we provide opportunities for prayer, formation, community, and service. Whether a student is curious about the faith or already deeply committed, we walk with them in friendship and discipleship, helping them grow into mature Catholic leaders for the Church and the world.

Everything we do is rooted in the Divine Intimacy, Prayer, Excellence, Humility.

Please pray for Fr. Tim, for everyone connected with the Newman Center, and especially for students seeking friendship, purpose, and a deeper relationship with Christ. Thank you for your generosity of spirit with which you welcome others.

God bless you,

Fr. Ed

ANOINTING OF THE SICK

This is the third in a series of four articles exploring the source, meaning, presence and practical implications of the Anointing of the Sick, a Sacrament of the Church that brings us closer to God's mercy. We hope you will find them informative. Let our priests know if you have any questions.

Do Not Wait to Call

If you remember one thing from reading this article, please remember this: do not wait until the last minute to call for a priest to anoint your loved one who is dying. In the previous two articles, it was explained that while the Church still administers the Last Rites for the dying, the Church has restored a broader practice of the Anointing of the Sick in general. While a priest will do everything possible to arrive in time to anoint someone facing imminent death, it is prudent to call for a priest sooner if a loved one has a serious condition or is entering hospice.

The Ritual Book for the Anointing itself specifically notes:

> "Great care and concern should be taken to see that those of the faithful whose health is seriously impaired by sickness or old age receive this sacrament. A prudent or reasonably sure judgment, without scruple, is sufficient for deciding on the seriousness of an illness; if necessary a doctor may be consulted."

Beneficial in Many Situations

The anointing is not for trivial illnesses such as a cold, or for routine outpatient procedures. Yet, "a sick person may be anointed before surgery whenever a serious illness is the reason for the surgery." A person facing serious surgery, cancer, multiple sclerosis and the like, should be anointed. If the sick person recovers, but falls ill again, he may be anointed again. The same applies if the sick person's condition worsens; he or she may be anointed again.

Additionally, the elderly may be anointed because they have grown weak with the burden of years, even if they are not seriously ill.

The one case in which a priest cannot anoint is when the person has already died. Sacraments are specifically for the living. When there is doubt if the person is deceased, the priest may confer the sacrament conditionally. When death has occurred, the Church does provide rituals and prayers for the deceased, even right there at home or at the hospital, including a blessing of the body.

Give Your Loved One Time to Prepare

Again, as stated at the beginning of this article, please contact the Parish Office as soon as possible when your loved one is dying, or has just begun hospice. Sometimes family members are concerned that the sight of the priest celebrating the Anointing of the Sick will frighten the dying person. That is understandable, yet, the person often realizes that he or she is dying; the struggle is often, at least in part, the family's acceptance of it. A person who is dying should be given the time to prepare to meet Christ face to face, including a sacramental confession with the Apostolic Pardon, as well as Viaticum.
